

The Point Weekly Bulletin

June 7th to June 14th

Making Sound...

With summer starting (slowly), the Strata Council wants to remind everyone that many people are sleeping with their windows and doors open. As such, please remember when you are outside or have your windows open that sound carries. As such, please be respectful of your neighbors. Also, if you have any wind chimes or other similar decorative items on your deck, their sound also carries.

Heating Issues

As mentioned last week, we have had repair people look into the heating issues on the parkade and lobby levels. We are now waiting for some additional parts to be installed on our heater/cooler to allow us to fully control the temperature level. We will update you once this issue is fully resolved.

New Strata Council Email Address

For any concerns or inquiries to the Strata Council, please email info@the-point.ca starting this week. The old strata council email address of thepointstrata@gmail.com is no longer in use. Furthermore, we will soon be launching a website so you can read bulletins online, share information and more. We will announce once the website is ready in the month of June.

Intercom Issues & Security Upgrades

For reasons still being investigated, the main door intercom does not always work. If possible, it is recommended you direct visitors/guests to use the Intercom at the Carnarvon Street door for the next week. As well, work has been continuing on the security upgrades. As of two weeks ago, all exterior doors are now fully secured. Now some of the interior doors to common rooms are having additional physical door security installed.
